THRUPPS FARMHOUSE

Thrupps Farmhouse comprises a very attractive (unlisted) ragstone and brick detached dwelling under a pitched part tile and part slate roof. The original house was extended by the conversion of an old stable block, and the property is considered to offer further potential for extension or alteration, subject to obtaining the necessary consents.

The existing accommodation is arranged over two floors. The ground floor entrance hall, which includes a cloakroom, leads on one side through to a large kitchen with a walk-in pantry, and on the right hand side to the sitting room with a stone fireplace. Through a connecting door, the sitting room leads to the dining room with wood panelling and a vaulted ceiling. The majority of the ground floor has timber floorboards (and parquet in the hallway) with stone tiles in the kitchen. Stairs lead to a room partially over the garage, which could be used as an additional bedroom, study or playroom. The main staircase in the original farmhouse leads to a first-floor landing with three bedrooms, and a family bathroom. Two of the bedrooms are double, with one single.

The house is extended with a conservatory on its front elevation, together with an attached garage. Outside, the property has a large patio area to the front elevation and is bordered immediately to the south by a stream.

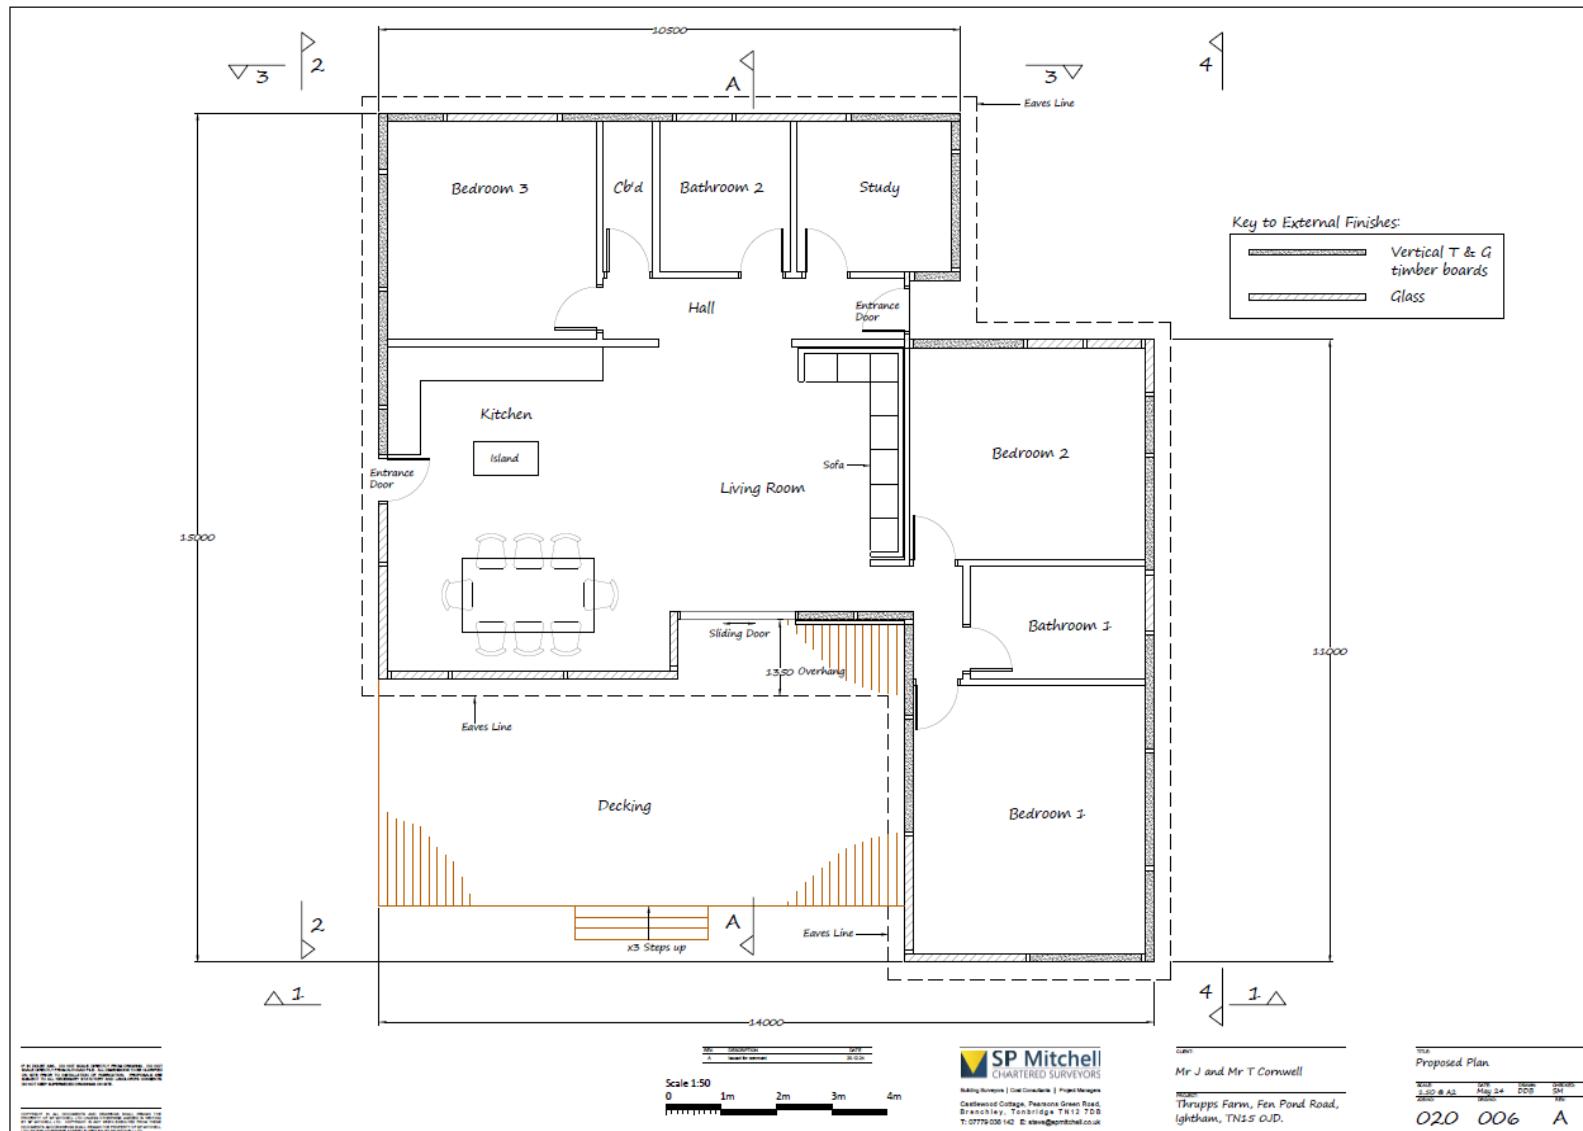

The property, while in need of significant renovation, offers tremendous potential.

GARDENS AND GROUNDS

The grounds at Thrupps Farm extend in all to 4.87 acres (1.97 hectares), with the farmhouse situated in the south-eastern corner alongside the existing outbuildings. The immediate surroundings of the farmhouse comprise well-established trees and shrubs, while the majority of the land beyond consists of gently sloping grassland. This land could be used for livestock grazing or landscaped to more formal gardens, subject to obtaining the necessary consents.

There are a range of timber outbuildings situated to the west of the house, most of which are in a poor state of repair. As part of the planning approval for the additional dwelling, these buildings are to be removed.
